

Free CPD Sessions – March

Developing a reading team

24th March 2022
3.30pm-4.30pm

This free workshop will provide the ideas and practical strategies for creating an “expert reading team”.

While it is up to every teacher to take responsibility for understanding the processes that underpin learning to read, it is up to the leadership team to ensure that every member of staff receives the best training opportunities to do this. The “Developing a Reading Team” workshop offers senior and reading leaders important guidance about the knowledge, skills, understanding and professional support required to teach reading effectively. The session sets out to demonstrate how to deliver targeted training and how best to approach practice and coaching sessions which target the differing needs of all adults teaching reading, not only those in KS1 but those in school as a whole.

Creating a purposeful reading environment

31st March 2022
3.30pm-4.30pm

Join us for a discussion on creating a reading environment which enables social reading spaces, quality text talk and sparks a love of books. We will include ideas for book corners, cross curricular displays, weaving a range of texts into the classroom and how this can impact on reading outcomes. In addition to the physical environment we aim to explore how we create a buzz for reading across the classroom and whole school.
